024.	14.4.10	Compile three years of statistics on the number and amount of school construction grants and the number and amount of notwithstanding clauses

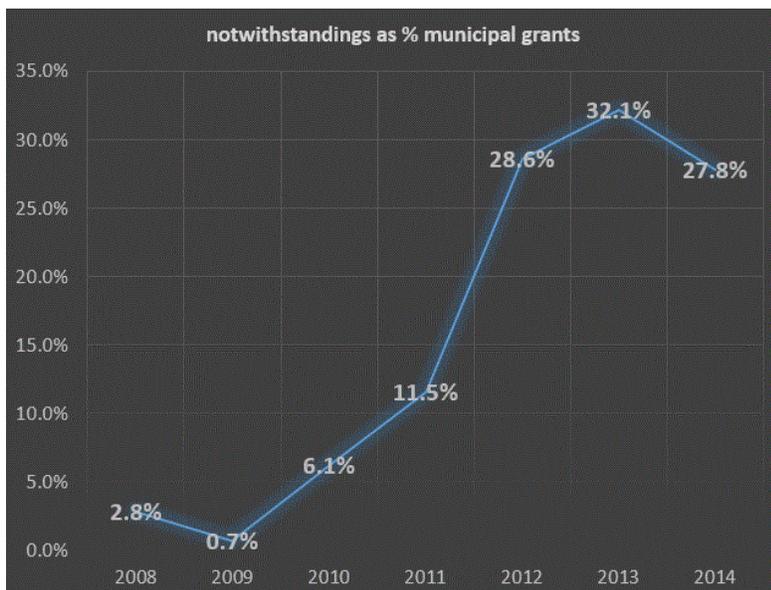

One of the challenges in creating a better school construction finance system is the lack of clear and consistent data that would allow for cost tracking as well as policy planning on both a micro and macro scale. SBPAC staff is working to assemble data in a format that will allow for policy-oriented data analysis. This report comes from that work.

The majority of the following information came from legislative Office of Fiscal Analysis (OFA) reports. That data came from correspondence from DAS (and formerly SDE).

Over the past three years, the legislative school construction grant authorizations have been as follows.

year	Priority List Grants	Notwithstanding Grants	Code and Roof Grants	Total Grants
2012	$353,336,332	$141,256,314	$19,257,173	$513,849,819
2013	$529,550,295	$250,657,694	$43,181,865	$823,389,854
2014	$377,291,540	$144,976,334	$23,438,810	$545,706,684

Priority list grants are for projects submitted in accordance with the established rules. Included in this are both new projects and authorized changes in existing projects. Notwithstanding grants are added on by the legislature during the legislative session. Notwithstanding grants include projects that were not submitted in accordance with the applicable deadline or the authorization of project costs that would not otherwise be allowed. Over time, the proportion of total school construction grants that have been through legislative notwithstanding clauses, rather than through the normal rules, have been increasing, as the following graph shows.

In 2012, there were 23 grant applications approved or reauthorized from the Priority List, resulting in a net increase in Priority List grant commitments of $353,336,332.

Please note that, in this context, the “Grant” means the change in the state’s grant commitment. Since this list includes changes in some previously authorized projects, the total grant commitment for those projects would include the original grant authorization for that project in a similar list from a previous year. This list is intended to show only the actual Priority List changes made in 2012.

In addition to the $353,336,332 in Priority List grant increases, there were 29 notwithstanding clauses in the legislative school bonding act that resulted in $141,256,314 in new and increased state grant commitments. The list of these notwithstanding provisions is as follows.

Windham	Windham Magnet School	$750,000
TOTALS		$141,256,314

Not all of these notwithstanding clauses carried a cost to the state. Releasing deadlines, for example, would allow the school district an exception from the rules, but would typically not cause an increase in the amount of state grant commitment. However, the large majority of notwithstanding clauses did increase state grant costs.

In addition to the Priority List, and separate from notwithstanding clauses in the school bonding act, certain projects, mainly code compliance and roof work, may be and are authorized by the DAS Commissioner administratively. In FY2012, there were 32 such projects for a total of $19,257,173. These administratively authorized projects are as follows.
